RE: Notice of Data Breach. Please read this entire letter.

Dear Sample A. Sample:

We are writing to let you know about a cybersecurity incident involving Barclays Bank Delaware. We received your information in connection with a Barclays credit card application submitted through one of our retail, travel, or other card programs. Keeping your personal information safe and secure is very important to us and, as you will see below, we have taken robust steps to address the incident and help protect your interests. Please read this entire letter as it contains details to help keep your personal information secure.

What Happened?

On November 4, 2026, we detected suspicious activity on a specific Barclays online service. This service allows Barclays credit card applicants to check the status of their application. This activity impacted credit card applications only; it did not impact any existing Barclays accounts you may have. Upon identifying the activity, we promptly launched an investigation and discovered that an unauthorized third party gained access to this system and acquired certain information, including some records that contain your personal information associated with your Barclays credit card application.

What Information Was Involved?

Based on our investigation, the affected information is associated with a specific Barclays online service that allows Barclays credit card applicants to check the status of their application. This information includes your name, contact information, date of birth and Social Security number.

What We Are Doing.

Upon learning of this incident, we acted quickly to stop unauthorized access, protect affected accounts, and began a thorough forensic investigation with the assistance of outside cybersecurity experts. We have also reported this incident to law enforcement and relevant regulators and are taking steps to further strengthen our network.

What You Can Do.

To help protect your identity, we are offering complimentary access to Experian IdentityWorks℠ for 24 months.

If you believe there was fraudulent use of your information as a result of this incident and would like to discuss how you may be able to resolve those issues, please reach out to an Experian agent. If, after discussing your situation with an agent, it is determined that identity restoration support is needed then an Experian Identity Restoration agent is available to work with you to investigate and resolve each incident of fraud that occurred from the date of the incident (including, as appropriate, helping you with contacting credit grantors to dispute charges and close accounts; assisting you in placing a freeze on your credit file with the three major credit bureaus; and assisting you with contacting government agencies to help restore your identity to its proper condition).

Please note that Identity Restoration is available to you for 24 months from the date of this letter and does not require any action on your part at this time. The Terms and Conditions for this offer are located at www.ExperianIDWorks.com/restoration.

While identity restoration assistance is immediately available to you, we also encourage you to activate the fraud detection tools available through Experian IdentityWorks℠ as a complimentary 24-month membership. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ABOUT IDENTITY THEFT AND WAYS TO PROTECT YOURSELF

You can get more information about fraud alerts, security freezes, and preventing identity theft from the consumer reporting agencies listed below and from the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). You can reach the FTC's identity theft hotline at 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338); TTY: 1-866-653-4261. Information is also available online at https://consumer.ftc.gov/features/identity-theft and https://www.identitytheft.gov. The FTC's address is: Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20580.

To request a security freeze, use the security freeze contact information below:

Equifax Security Freeze	Experian Security Freeze	TransUnion Security Freeze

Obtain Your Credit Report
We encourage you to stay alert to identity theft and fraud by reviewing your account statements and monitoring your free credit reports. Under federal law, you are entitled to free copies of your credit report from each of the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies listed above. To get your free reports, visit www.AnnualCreditReport.com or call 1-877-322-8228. You may also mail a request to: Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348-5281. If you find inaccurate information or a fraudulent transaction on your credit report, you have the right to ask the consumer reporting agency to correct or delete that information.

Fraud Alerts
You may place a fraud alert on your credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert lasts one year. It tells creditors there may be fraudulent activity and asks them to contact you before opening new accounts in your name. If you are a victim of identity theft, you may be eligible for an extended fraud alert, which lasts seven years. To place a fraud alert, contact any one of the three consumer reporting agencies. That agency will notify the other two.

Security Freeze
You have the right to place a security freeze on your credit report free of charge. There is also no charge to temporarily lift or permanently remove a freeze. A security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. Using a freeze may delay, interfere with, or block approval of new credit you apply for. To place a freeze, you must contact each of the three consumer reporting agencies separately, online, by phone, or by mail, using the contact information above. If you place a security freeze before enrolling in the complimentary credit monitoring service described in this letter, you may need to temporarily lift the freeze to enroll. You may refreeze your credit file after you enroll.

Reporting Identity Theft
If you believe you are a victim of identity theft, or that your information is being misused, report it promptly to your local law enforcement agency, your state Attorney General, and the FTC. You have the right to file a police report and to obtain a copy of it. Keep a copy of the police report, because creditors may ask for it to resolve fraudulent debts.

Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act
You have rights under the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA). These include the right to be told if information in your credit file has been used against you, the right to know what is in your file, the right to ask for your credit score, and the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. They may not report outdated negative information. Access to your file is limited, and your consent is required before reports are provided to employers. You may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance based on your credit report, and you may seek damages from violators. Identity theft victims and active-duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit https://files.consumerfinance.gov/f/201504_cfpb_summary_your-rights-under-fcra.pdf or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20580.
