

GAME RULES

Omaha Hi-Lo Split (8 or better)

The rules for Omaha Hi-Low Split (8 or better) state the game is played with a standard 52 card deck. Standard poker rankings apply and an Ace may be used high or low. The game utilizes a "dealer button" which indicates the player/dealer for that hand and rotates clockwise after each complete hand. The dealer button is the last to receive cards on the initial deal and has the right of last action on all betting rounds, except the first one. One or more blind bets are used to stimulate action and initiate play. The blind bet(s) (small and big) are made from the position(s) immediately to the left of the dealer button, and posted before a player looks at his/her cards. Action is initiated in the first betting round by the player to the left of the blinds. On all subsequent betting rounds, the action begins with the first active player to the left of the button.

Four cards (hole cards) are dealt to each player face down, in turn, as their personal hand. This is followed by the first round of betting. Three cards (community cards) are turned face up in the middle of the board simultaneously and are available to all players. A second round of betting follows. The fourth community card is dealt face up on the board, followed by the third round of betting. The final community card is dealt face up on the board and the fourth and final round of betting occurs.

After the final round of betting has been completed, a player must use a combination of two hole cards and three community cards to determine their highest ranking five-card poker hand. In addition, each player may use the same or any other combination to make a low hand, as long as each hand uses two cards and three community cards. To qualify for a low poker hand, a player must have an 8 high or better (lower). The lowest possible five-card poker hand is A-2-3-4-5. The best five-card high hand and qualifying low poker hand split the pot. If no player has a low qualifying hand, the player with the highest ranking five-card poker hand wins the entire pot. In the event of a tie, the pot (or portion of the pot if the tie is for the high or low hand only) is split equally, with the odd chip going to the player immediately left of the dealer button. Should there be an "odd" chip, the high hand receives it.

For limit games, the minimum wagering limit is $3 and the maximum wagering limit is $30. For spread limit games, the minimum wagering limit is $1 and the maximum wagering limit is $50.

Omaha Poker

Omaha Poker is a community card poker game that is played with a standard 52 card deck. Standard poker rankings apply. The dealer button positioned for the initial deal is based on a random draw, with the player drawing the high card to receive the dealer button. After that placement, the dealer button will rotate clockwise around the table after the completion of each hand. The dealer button is used to indicate the player who will be last to receive cards on the initial deal. Action on the first betting round is initiated by the player to the immediate left of the big blind. The blind bet(s) are made from the position(s) to the left of the dealer button and are forced bets which are posted before the start of the game.

Four cards (hole cards) are dealt to each player, one at a time, face down, in rotation. This is followed by the first round of betting. A player may check, bet, call, raise or fold. Three cards (community cards) are then dealt face up in the middle of the table and the second round of betting occurs. For this round of betting and all subsequent rounds, the player may check, bet, call, raise or fold. The fourth community card is dealt face up (the turn), followed by the third round of betting. The final community card (the river) is dealt face up, followed by the fourth (final) round of betting.

At the showdown, each player must use two hole cards and three community cards to make the highest ranking five card poker hand. The player with the highest ranking five card poker hand wins the pot. In the event of a tie, the pot is split equally.

For limit games, the minimum wagering limit is $3 and the maximum wagering limit is $30. For spread limit games, the minimum wagering limit is $1 and the maximum wagering limit is $50.

Texas Hold'em

Hold'em is played with a standard 52 card deck. Standard poker rankings apply. The game utilizes a flat disk called a "button" to indicate the player who, in theory, deals the cards for the hand. The person with the highest card based on a random draw will be the first person to have the dealer button. The dealer button is the last to receive cards on the initial deal and has the right of last action on all betting rounds, except the first one. The collection fee is paid by the dealer button position. One or more blind bets are used to stimulate action, initiate play, and are posted by players before player looks at his/her cards. The small blind is posted by the player immediately clockwise from the button, and the big blind is posted by the player two positions clockwise from the button. Action is initiated in the first betting round by the player to the left of the blinds. On all subsequent betting rounds, the action begins with the first active player to the left of the button.

Two cards (hole cards) are dealt to each player face down, in turn, as their initial hand. This is followed by the first round of betting. Three cards (community cards) are then dealt face up (flop) in the center of the table and are available to all players. A second round of betting then follows. The fourth community card (turn) is then dealt face up, followed by the third round of betting. The final community card (river) is dealt face up, followed by the fourth and final round of betting.

After the final round of betting has been completed, each player may use any combination of the hole cards and community cards, or may "play the board" and use no hole cards, to determine their best hand. If a player is "playing the board", it must be declared before throwing the cards away, otherwise the player(s) relinquish all claims to the pot. The player with the highest ranking five card poker hand wins the pot. In the event of a tie, the pot is split equally.

For limit games, the minimum wagering limit is $3 and the maximum wagering limit is $30. For spread limit games, the minimum wagering limit is $1 and the maximum wagering limit is $50. For no limit games, the minimum wager is $1 with no limit to their wager.
