The game played at Bruce's Casino is Texas Hold 'em

The game of Texas Hold'em is played with one standard deck of cards with 52 cards and no jokers are used.

The dealer (employed by Bruce's Casino) starts the game by placing the designated dealer button in front of the player directly in front of him. The player to the immediate left of the dealer button places an ante of one dollar on the table, the player to his left anted two dollars. The dealer rakes off the two dollar antes and drops it in the drop box, this is the total fee collected by the house for this hand. The dealer shuffles the cards and cuts them. He deals them one at a time clockwise from the dealer button, face down, until each of the four to ten players had two cards. Four is the minimum number of players for a game. The player to the left of the two dollar ante must call (place two dollars in the pot) or drop out (throw in his cards). A player can raise from two dollars to five dollars at each interval until the last card is dealt at which time he can raise up to ten dollars. After dealing two cards to each player and a betting round, the dealer flops three cards (after burning one card) face up in front of himself, followed by a betting interval. A fourth card is then dealt face up, betting interval, a fifth card is then dealt face up, then the final betting interval. Then the dealer tells the player remaining in the hand to turn their cards face up. He reads the hands and declares a winner, based on the lightest hand (best five of the seven cards) and awards the pot to him.

After each hand the dealer button rotated one player to the left (clockwise). In the event of a tie hand the dealer will divide the pot evenly among the winners.

The highest hand is computed as follows:

A straight flush beats four of a kind, which beats a full house, which beats a straight, which beats three of a kind, which beats two pairs, which beats a pair, which beats and ace high.

There is a twenty dollar minimum buy in, a five dollar short-buy, once only, table stakes only play, check and raise is allowed, string bets are not permitted, cards thrown in face down are a dead hand. Verbal bet is binding and can only be retrieved if made out of turn. No cash money on the card table. A called hand may be seen by all players.

Floor persons decision is final.

The minimum wages in our card room is $2 and the Maximum is $5 until the last card is dealt. After the last card is dealt the limit becomes $10 for the last betting interval.
