NOTICE OF DATA BREACH

Dear <<First Name>> <<Last Name>>:

We are writing to let you know about a data security incident that involves potential unauthorized access to your personal information. While we understand you are not a current member of Veridian Credit Union (“Veridian”), your personal information may have been compromised due to an attack on Veridian’s online membership application process. This letter explains what happened and what you can do to help protect your personal information.

WHAT HAPPENED?

An unauthorized party recently attacked Veridian’s online membership application system by beginning an application using information about you they already possessed. By using such information, the unauthorized party was able to potentially obtain additional information about you by generating a credit report in the system and possibly accessing the content. The bulk of the attacks on the system occurred between April 1-2 of this year.

WHAT INFORMATION WAS INVOLVED?

The data accessed may have included personal information from a credit report such as your name, address, social security number, date of birth and account/loan numbers at other financial institutions along with certain loan information like term and loan balance.

WHAT WE ARE DOING

Veridian values your privacy and deeply regrets that this incident occurred. Upon becoming aware of this incident, Veridian immediately conducted a thorough review of the affected application system and took action to prevent a recurrence of such an attack and to protect the privacy of all affected individuals. Veridian is also working with the credit bureau who provided the credit report noted above and is contacting law enforcement to address the incident.

Credit Reports: You may obtain a copy of your credit report, free of charge, whether or not you suspect any unauthorized activity on your account. You may obtain a free copy of your credit report from each of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies. To order your free credit report, please visit www.annualcreditreport.com, or call toll-free at 1-877-322-8228. You can also order your annual free credit report by mailing a completed Annual Credit Report Request Form (available at <https://www.consumer.ftc.gov/articles/0155-free-credit-reports>) to: Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA, 30348-5281.

Fraud Alerts: You can place fraud alerts with the three credit bureaus by phone or online. A fraud alert tells creditors to follow certain procedures, including contacting you, before they open any new accounts or change your existing accounts. For that reason, placing a fraud alert can protect you, but also may delay you when you seek to obtain credit. As of September 21, 2018, initial fraud alerts last for one year. Victims of identity theft can also get an extended fraud alert for seven years.

Monitoring: You should always remain vigilant for incidents of fraud and identity theft by reviewing credit card and other account statements for the next 12-24 months and by monitoring your credit report for suspicious or unusual activity. If you detect any suspicious activity on an account, you should immediately notify the financial institution or company with which the account is maintained.

Security Freeze: You have the right to place a security freeze on your credit report. By placing a security freeze, someone who fraudulently acquires your personal identifying information will not be able to use that information to open new accounts or borrow money in your name. You will need to contact the three national credit reporting bureaus listed above to place the freeze. Keep in mind that when you place the freeze, you will not be able to borrow money, obtain instant credit, or get a new credit card until you temporarily lift or permanently remove the freeze. There is no cost to freeze or unfreeze your credit files.

Please note that in order to file a crime report or incident report with law enforcement for identity theft, you will likely need to provide proof that you have been a victim.
