Notice of Data Breach

Dear <<first_name>> <<middle_name>> <<last_name>> <<suffix>>:

Newbridge Securities Corporation understands the importance of protecting the information we maintain. We are writing to inform you of an incident that may have involved some of your information. This notice explains the incident, measures we have taken, and some steps you may consider taking in response.

What Happened?

Newbridge has concluded an investigation into a network intrusion incident by an unauthorized person. Upon learning of the incident, we took immediate steps to secure the network, began an investigation, and a cybersecurity firm was engaged to assist.

What Information Was Involved?

Although the investigation determined that some of Newbridge's network systems were accessed by an unauthorized person between February 24, 2021 and March 18, 2021, the investigation was unable to determine what, if any, information was accessed. Nonetheless, Newbridge conducted a thorough review of potentially accessed information and concluded that potential access to some individual personal information could not be ruled out, even though the precise personal information potentially at risk could not be determined. We determined on August 30, 2021 that information of current or former customers may have been accessed and may have included your name, address, Social Security number and Newbridge account information.

What We Are Doing.

To help prevent a similar incident from occurring in the future, Newbridge has increased several of its security measures, including but not limited to removing legacy authentication methods, increasing audit logging on all systems, applying hardening policies for greater encryption on system communication, increasing the sensitivity of endpoint protection, strengthening password policies to require greater complexity, implementing multifactor authentication for both internal and remote network access, and strengthening email security efforts for identifying phishing or malicious content as well as internal training for our users to identify these types of cyberattacks.

What Can You Do.

We encourage you to remain vigilant by reviewing your financial account statements and credit reports for unauthorized activity. If you notice any unauthorized activity, you should immediately report it to the relevant financial institution or the credit bureau reporting the activity. To help protect your identity, we are offering a complimentary one-year membership of Experian IdentityWorksSM. This product helps detect possible misuse of your personal information and provides you with superior identity protection support focused on immediate identification and resolution of identity theft. This service is completely free to you and enrolling in this program will not hurt your credit score.

For More Information.

If you would like more information on identity theft prevention and additional steps you may consider taking to help protect your personal information, including instructions on how to activate your complimentary IdentityWorks Credit 3B membership, please see the additional information provided with this letter. In addition, we created a dedicated call center to answer any questions you may have about the incident and our response. If you believe you are the victim of identity theft or have reason to believe your personal information has been misused, you should immediately contact the Federal Trade Commission and/or the Attorney General's office in your state. You can obtain information from these sources about steps an individual can take to avoid identity theft as well as information about fraud alerts and security freezes. You should also contact your local law enforcement authorities and file a police report. Obtain a copy of the police report in case you are asked to provide copies to creditors to correct your records. Contact information for the Federal Trade Commission is as follows:

Fraud Alerts and Credit or Security Freezes:

Fraud Alerts: There are two types of general fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud—an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for one year. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft with the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years.

To place a fraud alert on your credit reports, contact one of the nationwide credit bureaus. A fraud alert is free. The credit bureau you contact must tell the other two, and all three will place an alert on their versions of your report.

For those in the military who want to protect their credit while deployed, an Active Duty Military Fraud Alert lasts for one year and can be renewed for the length of your deployment. The credit bureaus will also take you off their marketing lists for pre-screened credit card offers for two years, unless you ask them not to.

Credit or Security Freezes: You have the right to put a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze, on your credit file, free of charge, which makes it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. That's because most creditors need to see your credit report before they approve a new account. If they can't see your report, they may not extend the credit.

How do I place a freeze on my credit reports? There is no fee to place or lift a security freeze. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a security freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company. For information and instructions to place a security freeze, contact each of the credit reporting agencies at the addresses below:

- Experian Security Freeze, PO Box 9554, Allen, TX 75013, www.experian.com
- TransUnion Security Freeze, PO Box 2000, Chester, PA 19016, www.transunion.com
- Equifax Security Freeze, PO Box 105788, Atlanta, GA 30348, www.equifax.com

You'll need to supply your name, address, date of birth, Social Security number and other personal information.

After receiving your freeze request, each credit bureau will provide you with a unique PIN (personal identification number) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze.

How do I lift a freeze? A freeze remains in place until you ask the credit bureau to temporarily lift it or remove it altogether. If the request is made online or by phone, a credit bureau must lift a freeze within one hour. If the request is made by mail, then the bureau must lift the freeze no later than three business days after getting your request.

If you opt for a temporary lift because you are applying for credit or a job, and you can find out which credit bureau the business will contact for your file, you can save some time by lifting the freeze only at that particular credit bureau. Otherwise, you need to make the request with all three credit bureaus.
