NOTICE OF DATA BREACH

Dear <<Name >>:

Pennsylvania College of Technology (“Penn College”) writes to notify you of a recent event that may affect the privacy of your personal information. Although we have no indication that your information has been misused or that any fraud has taken place, we are providing you with details about this incident.

What Happened?

On February 23, 2023, Penn College discovered that certain personal information of some of its alumni had been mistakenly printed on the mailing label of its Spring 2022 and Spring 2023 editions of its alumni publication, Penn College Magazine. Upon discovery of this incident, Penn College immediately commenced an investigation to determine the identities of the potentially affected individuals.

What Information Was Involved?

Our investigation determined that your Social Security number was printed on the mailing label of the Penn College Magazine. It was inadvertently printed as a nine-digit unformatted number with your name and address and was not labelled in any identifying manner.

We take the confidentiality, privacy, and security of information in our care very seriously. Upon discovery of this incident, we immediately began an investigation and reviewed our data handling procedures. In an abundance of caution, we are providing you with access to <<CM Length>> months of credit monitoring services through TransUnion® at no cost to you, along with guidance on how to better protect against the possibility of information misuse. Please note that you must complete the enrollment process yourself as we are not permitted to enroll you in these services.

In addition, you can enroll in the complimentary credit monitoring and identity protection services being offered through TransUnion®. Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. You may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of your credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on your credit report. To request a security freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if you are a victim of identity theft.

Should you wish to place a credit freeze, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
