Subject: Security Incident

Quote No.: <<ClientDef1(QuoteNumber)>>

Dear <<Member First Name>> <<Member Last Name>>,

As you may know, Anderson & Murison is a wholesale insurance broker who assisted your retail insurance agent in applying for a personal umbrella insurance policy for you. We are writing to tell you about a data security incident that may have exposed some of your personal information. We take the protection and proper use of your information very seriously. That is why we are contacting you directly to let you know what happened and how we are protecting you personally.

What Happened?

Your agent used our personal umbrella rating system to obtain a quote through Anderson & Murison's web-based online personal umbrella rating system. To request a premium estimate, your agent provided us with information relating to you. On July 18, 2014, we discovered that some of the umbrella applications completed on our website were accessible for viewing on the internet. This inadvertent disclosure was not the result of an action or inaction by your retail insurance agent.

When we discovered the disclosure, we investigated further and learned that some of the umbrella applications completed on our web-based program were accessible for viewing on the internet at some point between June 2014 and July 18, 2014. As of July 18, 2014, those applications are no longer available for viewing. We have attached a copy of a sample application to give you an idea of the information that may have been available. Information that may have been disclosed includes your name, address, date of birth and driver's license.

Because some of the applications may have included information about others in your household, Anderson & Murison is taking the additional precaution of sending separate notification letters to every individual whose personal information was inadvertently disclosed. For example, if the application submitted for you listed two other members of your household who operated vehicles belonging to you, if that information included that other person's name, and date of birth or driver's license, those other persons will get letters just like this one. In that example, your household would get three total letters saying essentially the same thing.

At this time, there is no evidence to suggest that there has been, or will be, any attempt to misuse any of the information and we are unaware of any actual identity theft resulting from these disclosures. We believe that limited unauthorized access occurred, but we cannot track exactly who accessed, or if any applications were downloaded or saved. We are continuing to investigate and monitor the situation.

After learning of the inadvertent disclosure on July 18, 2014, we immediately took action to end the possibility of unauthorized access by changing the involved server's authentication passwords and credentials for the affected accounts.

Given the potentially serious nature of any data breach, we have reported the breach to law enforcement, and the California Attorney General's Office. The notification has not been delayed as a result of a law enforcement investigation.

What Are We Doing To Protect You?

It is always a good practice to monitor all of your financial accounts for any signs of suspicious activity. Also, if you determine that an account has been fraudulently established using your identity, you should immediately contact a credit reporting agency.

While we have no evidence that any of your personal information was targeted or used, as a precaution and to help relieve concerns and restore confidence following this incident, Anderson & Murison secured the services of Kroll to provide identity theft protection at no cost to you for 1 year.
